

Anti Trafficking and Modern Slavery

PREVENT | PROTECT | PROGRESS

Role – ATMS International Research Volunteer

Description: ATMS International are looking to recruit an International Research Volunteer to support two research / evaluation projects.

Project 1 – Small Projects Review - ATMS International have supported and funded numerous MSHT projects whereby the value of these projects can range anywhere from £1,000 to £350,000. However, within the past five years, there has been a growing number of small projects (maximum value of £15,000 and usually a yearlong) that ATMS International have funded. We would like to understand 1) impact of small projects, 2) whether we should continue investing in small projects. The review will be desk-based, mainly evaluating the small projects ATMS International have funded. It will also include interviewing key persons within TSA and involve collecting both primary and secondary data.

Project 2 - Critical success factors of income generation activities for survivors of trafficking - several MSHT projects that we have supported have included an income generation activity (IGA) component for survivors of trafficking. However, once a survivor exits from our support and decides to start their own enterprise, it is unknown how well or how successful they are. As such, we would like to explore the success factors of IGAs and explore different models of vocational training and what works well. This research will be desk-based and will include support in conducting lit review, developing the research questions, methodology, collecting data, analysing findings, and writing the report.

Location: Remote, but with weekly supervision

Accountable to: International Projects Advisor

What you will do:

- Evaluate the small projects that TSA have funded & detail your findings to understand the impact the projects have made
- Interview key TSA personnel & external organisations
- Collect both primary and secondary data
- Transcribe, analyse findings, and produce reports
- Conduct literature reviews
