

Charity Entrepreneurship Incubation Program

Looking for a meaningful job in the charity space that makes a real difference to people's lives across the world?

You could be a perfect fit for our 2-month Charity Entrepreneurship Incubation Program, giving you the training, funding, and mentorship you need to launch your own organisation dedicated to making the world a better place. Applications are open until March 24th - for more information, attend one of our online information sessions.

Program Details:

Program dates: August 11th - October 3rd, 2025 | February - March, 2026

Location: mostly online with 2 in-person weeks in London (cost covered)

Application Deadline: March 24th, 2025

Learn more at: <https://www.charityentrepreneurship.com/incubation-program>

About Charity Entrepreneurship

Our research team spends more than 5,000 hours a year identifying new solutions to tackling global inequalities - from improving education quality and job opportunities for people living in poverty to reducing environmental pollution and rates of newborn mortality. We then find people like you with a drive to make the world a better place and the talent to build new organisations producing a sea change in our ability to help the world's poorest and most vulnerable. Think startups, but solely focused on making the world a better place.

Since 2018, we've launched almost 50 new organisations through this program, providing new founders like you with more than £3 million in seed funding. These organisations are doing incredible work across the world, saving and improving thousands of lives every single year. GiveWell (effectively the Oscars of charity work) has recommended our charities as some of the very best in the world - improving lives more effectively than thousands of other, better-known charities.

To take one example, the Lead Exposure Elimination Project (LEEP) was founded through our program in 2021 by Lucia Coulter and Jack Rafferty - a former doctor and former consultant - with just £50,000 in funding. LEEP now operates in more than 20

countries, partnering with governments from Malawi to Pakistan. Their work is projected to save 46 million children from lead paint exposure over the coming decades.

While lead has been recognised and regulated as a dangerous substance in many wealthy countries for decades, it's sadly far too common in many developing nations. As such, it's one of the biggest causes of lower learning in school and reduced lifetime earnings, cementing cycles of poverty before many have even reached adolescence.

Applying for our program

Through partner projects, video lectures, and discussion groups, our program will teach you everything you need to know to launch a field-leading charity. You'll learn while creating the building blocks for your own charity, from a review of the evidence base to drawing up a plan for your first year and an initial operating budget.

What we offer

- 2-month full-time online training with 2 weeks in-person in London.
- Zero fees, with a stipend of £1,900 per month during (and potentially up to 2 months after) the program
- Matching you to a talented cofounder to lead your organisation with
- An average of £100,000 in seed funding for each organisation we launch
- Initial operations support and ongoing mentorship
- Co-working space in our London office
- A community of previous founders, mentors, and potential donors to help you succeed

We encourage anyone with a drive to direct their work to producing real, positive change to apply. There are no mandatory skills or experience - we've had founders from every continent, from twenty to mid-fifties, and from almost every type of prior job you can think of. Some of the world's most successful for-profit founders had no prior experience. Our experience training charity founders suggests the same applies to the non-profit world.

Applications to our program are open until March 24th.

Not sure if you're the right fit? The best way to find out is to submit our initial application form.

We're also hosting a series of online information sessions - about the program, our research, and what it's like to found your own organisation - that we encourage you to attend to learn more in the run-up to the application deadline.

Useful links:

Learn more about our program here

Read about the recommended charity ideas here

Learn more about the application process here