About us

At Share, we're passionate about supporting adults with learning disabilities and autism to live healthier, happier and more independent lives. We offer a range of training, employment, personal development and social opportunities to our disabled and autistic students. Our vision is to live in a world where disabled adults are genuinely valued and included, can make choices and have the freedom to achieve their ambitions.

Our 60 staff and 50 volunteers work with 175 adults at four south London sites and in the surrounding communities.

Share holds the Investors in People Gold accreditation and we are accredited by the National Autistic Society as well as Investors in Volunteers.

The role

You will lead on building relationships with, and increasing donations from, individuals with an interest in our cause and our local communities.

Most of our fundraising income comes from Trusts and Foundations, which our Chief Executive oversees. As we look to grow and diversify our income streams in line with our strategy, we need someone with the passion and track record to tell our story to other audiences so they want to support Share.

You will build on the excellent foundations laid by the outgoing Community Fundraiser to raise our profile amongst our neighbours and with local organisations. You'll also identify and engage groups who are likely to have emotional and practical reasons to support us.

This role will report into the Chief Executive to ensure all our fundraising is aligned, and will have a high degree of autonomy in managing the entire individual giving and community fundraising function. You will develop and deliver fundraising operational plans, ensure good fundraising practice and messaging is embedded throughout the entire organisation by engaging your colleagues, and work closely with the Marketing and Comms team who will provide you with admin support.

Who we are looking for

A dynamic, compelling and organised person with experience of building lasting relationships to achieve fundraising targets, bringing in income through regular donations, fundraising campaigns and events.

You'll be self-motivated and ambitious, and be excited by the opportunity to develop a crucial function within a growing charity. And you'll care about our students and the cause you're raising money for.

You'll be a brilliant communicator, in person, in writing, and over the phone. You'll tailor your messaging depending on the audience, and be equally at home with pulling potential supporters' heart strings as you will be with providing cold, hard facts about why supporting Share makes a difference.

You'll work smart, using data to inform where you channel your energies, considering the return on your (and your colleagues') time and any financial investment. You'll be able to think laterally, working with the wider Share team to use their skills and networks to increase your potential pool of supporters.

And when you bring in those supporters, you'll look after them, keeping them engaged with Share and ensuring they support us for years to come.

You'll be courageous, and open-minded about which opportunities to explore, and you won't be afraid of trying and failing. You will live our values in all you do at Share – respect, support, kindness, integrity, ambition and inclusivity.
