BACKGROUND

RCJ Advice, in collaboration with national Citizens Advice, runs a service which provides advice and support to staff and volunteers from local Citizens Advice organisations across England & Wales on immigration legal matters, enabling them to better support their clients. By supporting the local organisations, we can help build their confidence and knowledge to deal with level 1 queries themselves in the future.

We deliver this service through a national telephone helpline, providing advice and guidance on Level 1 and 2 queries. When an advice worker or volunteer is with the client, or after they've been with the client, they contact us with details of the case. We can either give advice there and then or do some research and come back to the adviser. In some instances where the matter is quite complicated, we will speak directly to the client.

This service is only for local Citizens Advice organisations in England & Wales and isn't open to the public.

At RCJ Advice, the team consists of two paralegals and one solicitor. Both paralegals work on the helpline most days. We also work with another local Citizens Advice who help run the helpline on Mondays and Tuesdays. And we work with national Citizens Advice who support us with file reviews and engaging with the national network.

Whilst the service is primarily there to deal with enquiries through a helpline, there will be an opportunity to support the Immigration Solicitor who takes on some of the more complex cases. In addition, there may be an opportunity to take on some actual casework under the supervision of the Immigration Solicitor.

And whilst we will expect you to come with some understanding of immigration law/rules, there will be lots of opportunity for ongoing training and development.

This post is subject to a DBS check.
