

Refuge

For women and children.
Against domestic violence.

Youth Tech Abuse Lead
Applicant Information Pack

Introduction from the CEO

Thank you for your interest in working for Refuge.

We have a diverse team of incredible people who work together to provide an inclusive approach to ensure that every woman who needs support when facing domestic abuse, receives it.

We do this through a combination of frontline services offering immediate safety and support to women and their children. We also lead vital work to influence and change policies and practices that impact women and girls and use public engagement and campaigning to help change societal attitudes and norms.

We know that domestic abuse will never end until it is recognised by society as the crime that it is, and there is an understanding that it is underpinned by misogyny. We will not stop until we are able to challenge and shift harmful societal attitudes as well as drive policy and practice change that is needed to end Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG). It is only then that women and children will be free to live their lives in safety, with control over their choices and without fear.

Whatever your role at Refuge, you will have the opportunity to grow and develop as part of an amazing diverse and inclusive team of inspirational and talented people who provide vital and specialist services to women and children when their lives are in crisis. This is not always easy work, but it is essential, it is lifesaving, and it is life changing. So, whether you work directly with clients, behind the scenes, or represent Refuge to the outside world, you will be an integral part of what we do.

We look forward to receiving your application.

Abigail Ampofo
Interim CEO

We want kind and empathic people to work at Refuge, who believe in equality, diversity, and inclusion, are experts in their area of knowledge, want to make a positive difference and improve the lives of the women and children we support.

This is an opportunity to join Refuge as a Youth Tech Abuse Lead. As a Youth Tech Abuse Lead you will provide specialist support and safety-planning around tech abuse to women and their children, with a particular focus on women in refuge, or leaving the boroughs for refuge, increasing the safety of women, children, and the services themselves. You will increase understanding and awareness across the boroughs on tech abuse, and how to identify and respond to these risks.

JOB DESCRIPTION

Job Title	Youth Tech Abuse Lead
Reports to	Tech Abuse Manager
Location	Pan London
Responsible for	N/A
Working hours	37.5 hours per week
Working pattern	10.00am – 6.00pm, Monday – Friday

Role Purpose

As a Youth Tech Abuse Lead you will provide specialist support to Refuge's children support workers and frontline staff to ensure children, young people, and protective parents are using technology safely and positively in our refuges. You will increase understanding and awareness of your colleagues on tech-facilitated abuse and how to identify and respond to risks. Approximately 40% of the role focuses on working directly with children and young people and their parents in empowerment workshops, and 60% of the role will focus on capacity building and training frontline staff.

You will work closely Senior Programme Manager – Children and Young People, deputising for them in ensuring the voices of children and young are central to the development of services and Refuge's systemic change initiatives.

The role does require a particular focus on supporting survivors of tech-facilitated abuse under the age of 18, this would require developing and delivering tech-facilitated abuse and online safety workshops to children, young people, and protective parents in refuges across London.

Key Accountabilities and Deliverables

- Create materials to support the successful delivery of training for both online and in-person training, through designing high quality resources and materials, including e-learning and bespoke packages on tech-facilitated abuse and young people where required.
- Providing guidance to increase the capacity of frontline staff particularly children support workers with an emphasis on complex technology abuse.
- Plan, develop, and deliver tech-facilitated abuse awareness and online safety workshops for young people and their protective parents.
- Risk assess and evaluate the online safety workshops to ensure they meet the needs of service users and funder requirements.
- Regularly seek out and obtaining updated, relevant, information on technology, including less commonly used technology, and on how it relates to your work – both in support of survivors – and as a trainer and educator. For example, in relation to apps and accounts commonly used by young people.
- Ensuring that the views of children and young people are regularly sought through consultations and feedback about technology misuse and how technology can be used strategically by young people to increase their own safety.
- Collating feedback to share with senior management to enable issues to be raised as appropriate with technology companies and policy makers.
- Deputise for Senior Programme Manager – Children and Young People in chairing forums and meetings for frontline staff.

- Developing and delivering training to frontline staff on tech-facilitated abuse and young people to improve their understanding and knowledge of tech-facilitated abuse and how it impacts young people.
- Capturing rich quantitative and qualitative data on the constantly changing technological techniques deployed by perpetrators of gender-based violence to abuse women and children and provide statistical monitoring or reports as required.
- Research ways in which technology is used by children and young people, risks it may pose, and best practice consideration when working with children at risk of online harms.
- Reviewing commonly used technology platforms and applications by children and young people and providing feedback to managers, creating accessible guides and resources for staff, young people, and their parents.
- Maintaining confidentiality and to ensure that professional boundaries are observed when working with clients, staff, and external bodies and to work within Refuge's Code of Conduct.

Managing self

- Promoting and supporting equality and empowerment within all areas of work.
- Representing and being an ambassador for Refuge, working in partnership internally and externally with other agencies to ensure an effective coordinated community response to survivors of sexual violence and their children.
- Developing and maintaining positive, collaborative working relationships with all Refuge staff both locally and across the wider organisation, being committed as part of the team to providing a high level of support to survivors.
- Actively participating in Refuge's performance management processes including regular supervision and development.

Managing health, safety and security

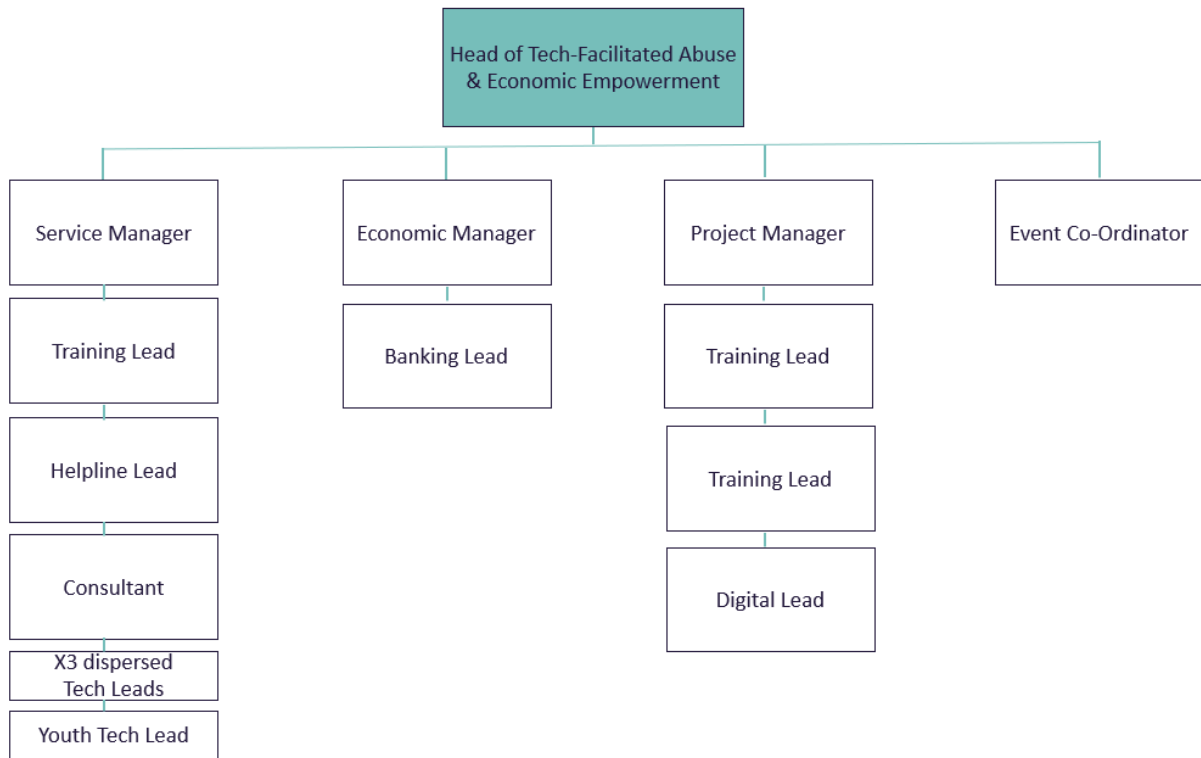

- Promoting and ensuring the safety and wellbeing of self and others in line with our Safeguarding.
- Adult and Children Policies, Health & Safety Policy, together with any other requirements aimed at keeping people safe from harm in their interaction with Refuge.
- Ensuring that the confidentiality and security of information is maintained in accordance with our Confidentiality, Data Protection, IT and Security policies.
- Promoting sustainable working practices and reducing the environmental impact of Refuge's work.
- Demonstrating an understanding of and commitment to equality, diversity, and inclusion in all aspects of the role.

This post is restricted to women due to the nature of the role. The Occupational Requirement under Schedule 9 (part 1) of the Equality Act 2010 applies.

We are committed to safeguarding therefore we expect all staff and volunteers to share this commitment. As part of this commitment, we undertake basic disclosure checks (DBS) in accordance with the DBS Code of Practice for all roles. We undertake an enhanced DBS check for our roles working directly with survivors.

It is essential to the development of Refuge's service delivery that the post holder can respond flexibly to changes in the requirements of this post. This job description is therefore a guide and not an exhaustive list of all responsibilities the post holder may have over time.

Team Structure Chart

Who Are We Looking For?

For us it is important that you are passionate, committed and care about the work Refuge undertakes. Not all roles require previous experience in the Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) sector. You may be able to bring relevant experience from another industry or transferable skills from a different type of role or volunteering/community experience.

For us, a role description is a useful guide. But please don't discount yourself if you feel you don't meet all the criteria and believe you have the potential. Above all we value individuals who are committed to working hard but looking after yourself, flourish in an inclusive environment and want to make a positive difference to the communities we support.

For example, this can be:

- Relevant experience from your present or previous jobs.
- Skills and experience gained from community or voluntary work, work experience, leisure interests and activities in the home.
- Education and the training you have received.

We would like to thank you in advance for expressing an interest in working for Refuge. We look forward to receiving your application.

Applications from Refuge Service Users and Survivors

Former Refuge service users and other survivors supporting Refuge in its external work including for fundraising, policy, media and press can apply for all externally advertised job vacancies.

Survivors that are currently using our services cannot apply for Refuge job vacancies. This restriction is for the survivor's safety and to ensure there is no conflict of interest.

A confirmation of a conditional job offer to a former service user will be subject to a risk assessment. Where significant risks to Refuge and other service users cannot be mitigated, we may not be able to make a conditional offer of employment. If successful in securing the role, their data on Impact will be protected.

Our commitment to inclusive recruitment

Our People and Culture team will remove your name, address and date of birth before forwarding your information for shortlisting. Your education is only considered if it is a requirement of the role.

We want Refuge to be an organisation that is reflective of the society we are based in, therefore, we are committed to growing our diverse workforce. The information you provide on the diversity monitoring form is confidential and helps the People and Culture team to understand where you would have seen the role and how we may need to do better in ensuring everyone who wants to work for Refuge is aware of the opportunities as they arise.

Other information

Safeguarding is vital to our work, and we strive to prevent harm and promote and protect the welfare and safety of all adults and children that come in contact with the organisation. We have a collective responsibility to take a do no harm approach by prioritising the safety and wellbeing of the women and children accessing our services, as well as ensuring a duty of care to our staff and volunteers.

As part of this responsibility, we undertake basic disclosure checks (DBS) for all roles in accordance with the Codes of Practice and in line with our Recruitment of Ex-Offender and Disclosure Barring Services Checks Policy, and for our roles working directly with survivors, at an enhanced level check. Applicants are encouraged to apply for job vacancies, having a spent or unspent conviction will not automatically exclude you from being offered the role. If you are successful in securing the role, we will hold an open and measured discussion about any convictions that might be relevant to the role. Our Recruitment of Ex-Offender and Disclosure Barring Services Checks Policy is available to applicants on request.

Data Protection Act

Refuge is committed to protecting your privacy. Information provided by you in your application form will be kept for the purposes of monitoring. It will be copied for use during the recruitment process. Once the recruitment process is completed, the data will be stored for a maximum of 6 months and then destroyed. If you are the successful candidate, relevant information will be taken from this form and used as part of your human resources record. All personal information that you supply to us as part of your application will be processed in accordance with prevailing UK Data Protection legislation.

By submitting your completed application form you are consenting to your personal data being used and held as described above.

Please ensure that the information you give to us is correct and that you let us know of any changes immediately.
