Senior Project Support Officer

Recruitment Pack

March 2025

Welcome

Youth Futures Foundation was established in 2019 with the clear mandate to address the cycle of systemic employment disparities, discrimination and disadvantage that marginalised young people in England face. In our first five years we have built the evidence to better understand why these different employment outcomes exist, and their long-term impact on our young people. The stark reality remains, however, that a staggering 1 in 8 young people are not in education, employment or training (NEET), with those from marginalised backgrounds facing even greater barriers than their peers.

The challenge is big but so is the prize for getting it right, not only for young individuals but our society and economy at large. To get there our country needs clear ambition, which is why the heart of our new strategy sets the goal that England should aim to have the lowest NEET rate in the OECD by 2050; a statement of intent we hope others will join us in calling for.

As we look to the future, it is right we set direction for the unique and privileged role Youth Futures plays as the What Works Centre for youth employment. Not just in building the evidence base on the barriers and solutions to this persistent challenge; but in proactively influencing those who hold the levers of change in policy and practice to unlock a generation of talent.

Established as a small start-up with a big mission, Youth Futures' early years saw the organisation adapt swiftly and decisively. Less than six months into operations, we – like so many others – were navigating a global pandemic that brought with it an unprecedented challenge for the labour market, young people and the front-line organisations supporting them. I am enormously proud of everything the team were able to learn and achieve during this period, and way they adapted to support those most in need at the time.

We promote strong coordination and partnership working across government, funders, delivery organisations and employers. Our flagship £16 million Connected Futures Fund aims to address the fragmentation of youth employment and skills delivery in the places that need it most, so that young people furthest from the job market receive consistent high-quality support to address complex needs.

We continue to strengthen our organisation and team as we grow and evolve and this role will play a crucial part in supporting the organisation in achieving its vision, mission and business goals. If you are passionate about creating a better future for young people, we look forward to hearing from you.

Barry Fletcher, CEO

About us

Who we are

Youth Futures Foundation is the national What Works Centre for youth employment, with a specific focus on marginalised young people. We are part of the national What Works Network of organisations committed to generating and collating the best evidence to identify, analyse and target the critical challenges facing our country.

What we do

Youth Futures Foundation is the What Works Centre for youth employment. At Youth Futures, we work directly with government, employers, civil society organisations and young people themselves to influence policy and practice. Alongside our partners, grantees and young people, we have put our collective efforts into identifying the most effective strategies and tools to get us moving in a better direction.

In 2023, our team grew across our three locations in London, Birmingham and Leeds, and we welcomed new board and committee members with a breadth of skills and experience. A second cohort of Future Voices Group Ambassadors have also joined us, bringing with them their lived experience and fresh perspectives so crucial to our success. We believe all of this puts us in a unique position to change the system that currently does not serve young people well.

One of our most important innovations in 2023, the Data Dashboard brings together the latest youth labour market data and our own research, combining the best evidence on youth employment from across the UK and internationally. It is our way of making the evidence visible to policy makers and influencers to help them make informed decisions for change.

In 2024, we are continuing to implement and evaluate interventions to deepen our understanding of what works to get young people into employment. As we do so, we will expand our investigation of the underlying, multi-faceted causes of youth unemployment and grow the evidence base for action. And we will continue to bring that evidence to the right people, in the right way, to help make change a reality.

Vision, Mission and 'North star' goals

Vision and Mission

A vision that speaks to our core beliefs and aspirations for all young people.

An action-orientated mission as a What Works centre focussing on young people facing marginalisation.

'North Star' goals

Two 'north star' goals to set long term ambition for us and others. They speak to the impact needed for the future to be different for a marginalised young person born today when entering working life.]

Equity, diversity and inclusion statement

The young people we aim to serve - and the challenges they face - are all unique. We need to build a team that reflects this diversity, is highly skilled and committed. Our commitment to inclusion across all protected characteristics, experiences and socioeconomic background forms the cornerstone of our work.

We work hard to ensure we have a diverse and inclusive workforce. We use identity-blind software for all our permanent recruitment campaigns to reduce unconscious bias during recruitment. We have flexible working policies which are kept under review and many of the more flexible working practices we adopted during lockdown have been retained. The recruitment of our team around our three hubs of Birmingham, Leeds and London has enabled us to attract a greater diversity of talent than simply focusing recruitment in one city.

In building the Board, the Future Voices Group, and making external appointments to the Grants Committee, we have also ensured our governance and advisory structures contain a broad diversity of background and experience.

We are committed to encouraging an open, collaborative, safe and inclusive working environment. We have an EDI committee, formed of a group of employees, with a senior leadership team lead, who have a keen interest or experience of EDI and work together on issues or concerns related to equity, diversity and inclusion at work. The committee address and implement proactive strategies relating to EDI, support policy reviews and revisions, be the employees voice to Senior Leadership Team members and share feedback for continual improvement on our organisational wide values and commitment to EDI.

We are Disability Confident and have committed to ensuring that we attract, recruit, retain, support and develop disabled people in the workplace. We aim to continually improve and develop our talent attraction and inclusive recruitment practices to be reflective of our organisational behaviours and culture.

We are committed to the charter as an employer positive about mental health in the workplace and are a Mindful Employer.

We are a Living Wage Employer, as we believe a hard day's work deserves a fair day's pay. Our base rate of hourly pay is in line with the London Living Wage.

Who we are

Youth Futures Foundation is the national What Works Centre for youth employment, with a specific focus on marginalised young people.

What we do

We find and generate high-quality evidence to better understand England's youth unemployment and inactivity challenge, and most importantly to learn what solutions work to address this. We do this through bringing together the best evidence already in existence and build on this by conducting original research and testing and evaluating promising interventions to produce much needed new evidence where there are gaps.

We put evidence into action with policy makers, employers and funders who have the means to make direct impactful change for young people. We do this through translating the evidence practically for stakeholders to use and understand, and through partnerships and engagement to influence, inform and support them as decision makers to back evidence-based interventions that work.

Youth Inclusion

Throughout our work, we proudly involve the voices, perspectives and participation of young people experiencing marginalisation, through our Future Voices Group, our young Board members and beyond. We believe that the young people who are most affected by the system have invaluable perspective and experience, and therefore must be at the heart of efforts to change it.

We actively ensure that all young people engaged with Youth Futures Foundation meaningfully influence our work and advocate within the employment system while also developing their skills and personal outcomes. Our Future Voices Group programme harnesses these insights to craft impactful narratives that influence the knowledge, practice and behaviour of key actors and audiences within the system such as policymakers and employers. The group also participate in decision-making and projects throughout Youth Futures.

JOB DESCRIPTION

This is a new role to support Youth Futures achieve their ambition as part of their strategy to influence employer behaviour and practice to support more young people into employment. This role is critical in supporting a small team to manage internal and external facing projects, developing and maintaining operational processes to ensure we achieve our organisational targets. You may come with experience of or a passion for tackling youth unemployment.

Our Employer Strategy is built around how we:

1. Use our existing evidence to change employer practice through partnership working to reach employers at scale.
2. Build the evidence base of employer practice through evaluation and research to demonstrate "what works" and scaling this impact through our "Employer Trials" programme.

We are looking for a strong organiser, someone who can collaborate with members of the team and wider colleagues to ensure projects are delivered on time and to a high standard. Project management and co-ordination is key, helping to develop our internal processes to plan and manage our work and bring more transparency across the organisation.

This role will be critical in helping to develop and manage the operational process for the "Employer Trial" programme. This will require strong internal collaboration and communication, using our internal CRM and project management tools, Salesforce and Asana, to effectively manage tasks and record progress, ensuring all information is up to date and accurate. The role will also include engagement with employers and senior representatives from our employer networks, ensuring that we deliver end-to-end relationship management. This role will have some responsibility for partnership contracting and coordinating legal queries and responses, so attention to detail and accuracy is key and working collaboratively with colleagues in key directorates.

You will also support the wider team with a variety of projects with key external partners, this might involve meeting set up and note taking, compiling presentations, designing and delivering resources or helping to support at events. You will be a diligent planner, organised and be able to prioritise your workload, keeping everyone up to date and on track.

You will be the team's main point of contact for internal communications, making sure we keep the rest of the organisation up to speed with our work, key tasks and opportunities. You need to be a collaborative worker, applying cross-team working and building strong relationships across the organisation.

As a small team we often get asked to support ad hoc cross-organisational work and this role will be keen to enable that to happen and will work closely with the Head of and Director of Employer Engagement & Partnerships to execute key activities, so the ability to adapt and be flexible is required.

This role is suited to someone who likes working as part of a fun team, with a diverse range of projects at an exciting time in the trajectory of Youth Futures Foundation. The perfect candidate will be someone who is agile and proactive in rallying around to support when deadlines need to be met.
