

Research Impact and Engagement Manager

Blood
cancer
UK

About the role

We exist to fund research into beating blood cancer. In the past 60 years, we've invested more than £500 million into blood cancer research which has led to improved treatments and saved lives.

Everything we do in the next five years will be based on a single aim – to stop people dying of blood cancer or the side effects of its treatments. We want to put people affected by blood cancer at the centre of everything we do.

It important we demonstrate the impact of our research to our supporters and raising the profile of the charity. This role will lead the delivery of a programme of work to analyse our historical and current research portfolio. The role will work closely with colleagues in fundraising and communications teams to ensure dissemination of outputs and impact from our research funding.

The role will lead the delivery of a programme of researcher engagement so we have well developed relationships with our grantholders.

Salary: £45,000 - £50,000 per annum (dependent on experience)

Hours: Full or part time (4 days a week, 28 hours)

Further information, including location and travel requirements, can be found in the job description and person specification.

need the best people to beat blood

About you

As Research Impact and Engagement Lead, you will be integral in leading our impact and engagement workstreams within the research team. You will lead the implementation of our research impact programme to ensure that we appropriately monitor and report on the impact of our life-saving research. You lead the delivery of a programme of researcher engagement activity into regular practice, establishing our stewardship programme to bring us closer to our funded researchers and the wider blood cancer research community.

This is an exciting time to join the organisation as we work to deliver our strategy, funding impactful research to drive forward the day when nobody dies of their blood cancer or its treatment.

Further information can be found in the job description and person specification.

Why work at Blood Cancer UK

We started because of Susan; we'll get there because of you.

Blood Cancer UK was started by one family who lost their daughter, Susan, to blood cancer, and that history and sense of family continues to shape who we are today. When you join Blood Cancer UK, you don't just become an organisational employee – you become part of a collaborative community dedicated to funding research into beating blood cancer that includes some of the most inspiring people you'll ever meet.

And we're not that far away from beating blood cancer. We're confident we can do it within the next generation, and this makes us hugely ambitious and gives us a sense of real urgency. It also means we're changing quickly as an organisation as we constantly challenge ourselves and strive to become more and more effective.

Blood Cancer UK offers the chance to work for and with people affected by blood cancer, and the opportunity to advance your career and develop your skillset whilst taking on exciting new challenges and making your mark.

What we do

We fund world-class research; provide information and support to patients and their loved ones; and raise awareness of blood cancer. Since 1960 we have invested more than £500 million in blood cancer research in the UK. Where we've invested, survival rates and quality of life have improved.

Our culture

At Blood Cancer UK our culture is as follows:

A positive environment where everyone is warm, engaging and collaborative.

You will see, hear and find that everyone is highly engaged – we all have a strong sense of motivation, purpose and commitment to the blood cancer community, our role, and the wider organisation.

Everything we do is on behalf of people affected by blood cancer, to achieve greater impact and better outcomes for our community, which we are a key part of. We are here for them, and we include them in all of the work we do, making sure we fully understand their needs to inform our actions. This means at times we need to make difficult decisions, and we do not shy away from this.

We are all willing to go the extra mile, in an environment that lives and breathes its values. We take ownership and responsibility and never blame others. In return you will feel and experience our support to enable you to succeed.

Our leaders will give you what you need to do your role (information, tools, access and guidance) and will trust you to deliver.

Our environment encourages self-starters, innovation and sound judgement. An environment that embraces challenges as our people seek and try out ideas / new ways of working to be more efficient and effective for the blood cancer community. We learn from failure as well as success. Our people are not afraid to give constructive challenge as trust is high at all levels in the organisation.

We all seek feedback to continuously improve our performance and are not defensive when we receive it. We strive for high performance as individuals and for our teams.

We are an inclusive organisation where no one is left behind, where we can truly be ourselves and be proud of everything we do together.

Our values

Our values inspire us and guide our decision making and actions. We will ask all shortlisted candidates about their connection to our values at interview stage, so please make sure that our values resonate with you before applying.

Striving for results: We are determined, focussed on a clear vision. We are motivated, practical and passionate to do all we can to make the lives of those affected by blood cancer better and to ultimately find a cure for blood cancers.

United as a family: We are one caring family. We work together to raise funds and awareness, to inform and look after people affected by blood cancer. We value each other's contribution. We work as one.

Standing in others' shoes: We have empathy, we listen, we see things from the perspective of others. We take ownership to address issues and solve problems. We do all we can to help and support others.

Making knowledge count: We are experts in our field. We share our knowledge and use our expertise to help get the best outcomes for those affected by blood cancer. We build understanding.

How we work

We work in an agile way which means rather than expecting people to be in the office from 9am to 5pm, we're much more focused on what they deliver.

We've built a positive culture where autonomy, trust, accountability, wellbeing and flexibility allow us to attract brilliant people, and to make sure that once they're here they want to stay.

We come together in person when it adds value and, within a framework, you can make values-based decisions on when and where you work. This means a better work-life balance and delivering more for people affected by blood cancer. We want everyone who works at Blood Cancer UK to be able to thrive at work and do the best work they possibly can.

For the majority of roles, your contractual place of work will be one of our offices. For travel expenses purposes, this means that we do not pay for travel into your contractual place of work (your commute). If you have to travel to another location for your role, you'd be able to claim the difference between a normal journey to your contractual place of work, and the new location.

Organogram

Now you have read about the role, to help you get a better feel of where it sits in Blood Cancer UK, here is a simplified organogram.

How to apply and the selection process

We ask you to send us a CV and cover letter via our recruitment system. The link is on our vacancy page here: Current Vacancies

In your cover letter, we'd like to know why you're interested in working with us at Blood Cancer UK and why you think you are a great candidate for this role. Your cover letter doesn't have to be too long, 1-2 pages is ideal.

We use a blind shortlisting process for initial applications. This means that when you apply, the hiring manager cannot see any of your personal details, for example, your name, your contact details, or any equality and diversity data that you provide. Our recruitment system takes care of this, so you can just upload your CV as normal. It's easier for our system to read CVs which don't have any additional formatting. So please avoid adding symbols, or pictures into your CV.

Blood Cancer UK is an equal opportunities employer, and we are committed to ensuring all applications are treated fairly. If you're shortlisted, you'll receive an invitation to the next stage, which might be either a telephone interview, or a face-to-face interview. We'll send you all the details you need.

We're a part of the disability confident scheme and will guarantee to interview candidates with a disability whose application meets the minimum criteria of the role as detailed under the person specification.

If you require any reasonable adjustments to be made as part of the application process, please email us on recruitment@bloodcancer.org.uk and we'll discuss this further with you.

We'll always let you know the outcome of your application. We'll also always give feedback to anyone who is shortlisted and interviews with us. Usually, we're unable to provide feedback to anyone who doesn't get to interview stage.

Closing date: Midnight on Wednesday 5th January 2025

Please note that we may bring forward the closing date at our discretion.
